

digital television and how portions of the finite spectrum should be allocated to broadcasters for the development of digital transmission.

I have long been a supporter of protecting the taxpayers in allocations of the spectrum by the FCC. In fact, I proposed an auction earlier in the year as part of the budget reconciliation process.

While I believe the Telecommunications Act of 1996 was clear in that it did not mandate any giveaway of the digital spectrum, it is important that Congress revisit this issue this year and establish a clear national policy on spectrum assignments to the private sector.

OTHER ISSUES

There are a number of other telecommunications issues that will occupy the committee's attention this year, including a look at whether current rules restricting foreign investment in US broadcasting are good for the nation.

It may well be that we should allow more foreign investment in US broadcasting, provided US broadcasters have the same investment rights overseas. This could open more foreign markets to US telecommunications products and services. The committee may hold hearings this year on this issue.

The committee also will consider reforming the Communications Satellite Act of 1962. When that act was passed, no one thought private companies would launch and operate satellites. Today, we have private companies competing with the international government-owned satellite systems, INTELSAT and INMARSAT. We need to re-evaluate how competition should operate in the international satellite market.

The Telecommunications Act of 1996 was a major legislative step forward in modernizing America's ancient telecommunications laws. But we cannot rest on our legislative laurels if Congress is to provide a regulatory infrastructure that helps, rather than hinders, America's telecommunications industry. Our work has just begun. •

TRIBUTE TO THE CREW OF SPECIAL AIR MISSION 3311 TO HAITI IN SEPTEMBER 1994

• Mr. NUNN. Mr. President, I would like to recognize the outstanding service of the crew of Special Air Mission 3311, which transported former President Jimmy Carter, retired U.S. Army Gen. Colin Powell, and myself to and from Haiti in September 1994. This mission was a last chance attempt to achieve a peaceful return to power of Haiti's democratically elected government. Although the successful outcome of the United States negotiating effort is well known, I want to reflect for a moment on the bravery and high level of professionalism exhibited by the air crew that gave our mission of peace the opportunity it needed to succeed.

Recently, I had the opportunity to speak with one of the members of this aircrew and I recalled the extraordinarily difficult conditions under which the aircrew members were forced to operate. On the evening of September 16, 1994, this aircrew was given less than 8 hours to prepare for a 6 a.m. departure for the following day in which neither the destination, nor the passengers of the flight, were known. Only 3 hours before the flight's scheduled departure did the aircrew learn of its orders to transport General Powell from Andrews Air Force Base to Robins Air Force Base in Georgia, where they would pick up former President Carter and myself, and continue its flight to Port-au-Prince, Haiti. Intelligence sources at that time indicated that the runway at the Port-au-Prince airport was unusable. There were large amounts of debris littering the runway, including nails and 8-foot-high metal containers. Only minutes prior to the landing, as much debris as possible was moved to the sides of the runway. Miraculously, and with no margin for error, the crew was able to land the aircraft with only 20 feet of wing-tip clearance. However, the crew's ordeal did not end at that point in the mission.

On September 18, the aircraft returned for our mission's departure from Haiti. Delays in our negotiations resulted in the crew having to wait for more than ten hours in the plane for the return of our delegation. The crew members endured heat in excess of 120 degrees while maintaining the aircraft's readiness for an instant departure with minimal support facilities. The crew had to function under the additional stress of knowing that the negotiations were not proceeding very well. When our negotiating team arrived at the aircraft for departure, the crew had no knowledge concerning the final outcome of our discussions or the current status of a United States invasion force that was enroute from Pope Air Force Base to Haiti. Only after a successful takeoff under these tense conditions did the crew learn that the negotiations had concluded successfully.

Mr. President, the courage, dedication, and professionalism of the aircrew of Special Air Mission 3311 to Haiti represent the finest qualities of the men and women serving in our Nation's Armed Forces. For their dedication, each member of the aircrew was awarded the Air Medal. In addition, this extraordinary unit received the 21st Air Force Aircrew Excellence Award for the third quarter 1994 and was nominated for the Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner Award for Outstanding Air Mobility Command Aircrew. They made a major contribution to our mission to Haiti. Today, I want to pay tribute to the excellent job that they performed and I ask that a list of the names of those outstanding individuals who served in Special Air Mission 3311 be printed in the RECORD.

The list follows:

THE CREW OF SPECIAL AIR MISSION 3311

SALUTE TO GOV. DON SUNDQUIST ON HIS 60TH BIRTHDAY

● Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, in this increasingly hectic world, we often don't take the time to recognize the people who make such a difference in our communities and in our lives. But today, on the occasion of Tennessee Governor Don Sundquist's 60th birthday, I would like to pause and recognize his lifelong service to the people of the great State of Tennessee.

Fifteen years ago, he announced that he was running against Bob Clement for the Seventh District Congressional seat. Though many people said it was a waste of his time to run against one of the biggest political families in Tennessee, he was determined and his message was strong. When election day rolled around, he had defied the odds and had won. For more than 10 years he kept his word with his constituents in Congress, and consistently fought against tax increases and fought to reduce the size and scope of the Federal Government.

In 1994, he brought that message and the commitment to the entire State. That election year, he and I crossed paths many, many times. As two Republican candidates seeking statewide offices in the biggest year so far for Republicans in Tennessee, we were constantly running into each other on the campaign trail as we discussed our visions for Tennessee. During these
